Dividers and partitions allow you to create new environments within large spaces and to give a little more privacy. These freestanding structures are capable of shielding certain vertical areas, thanks to the use of greenery, where visibility is regulated by the arrangement of plants.

Planters and pots to embellish any space which can also serve as a screen.

Dividers for restaurants and bars, for privacy and boundaries which can also incorporate planters. A solution to separate the passage way from the seating areas. These vertical structures create a nice combination of green and shelter in the open space. They are also suitable for indoors.
